

Creating Citations – the ‘Citations Helper’ in Resources

Renewed attention is being given to the citations helper available in Sakai Resources. This feature, first released a number of years ago, lets users search through external repositories/search engines (e.g., Google, and the commercial discover tool from Serial Solutions called Summons). Modifications are being made to improve the search side of the process such that multiple selections can be made and passed as a group back to Sakai (rather than one at a time). That work is tracked in Jira SAK-21670. On the Sakai side, the UI and process for creating a citation list using selected references warrants improvement. Proposed changes are shown below.

A few screens from the current UI

Proposed UI

Goals – reduce clicks/steps/complexity; make UI consistent with other Resources UI; reduce confusion in flow; accommodate (optional) reference multi select.

Some standard design features in Sakai 2.x

Starting Citations creation from within Sakai

Make this item 'Create Citation List' for consistency

Allow editing the Citation list name at the beginning rather than at the end

Metadata on the citation list as a whole, Currently presented after 'continue' Towards the end of the flow
